THE DAILY JOURNAL

Is the best daily paper published on the line of the Central Pacific Railroad, east of Sacramento, and having a general circulation throughout the State it is especially valuable as an advertising medium.

THE DAILY AND WEEKLY JOURNAL have a combined circulation larger than that of any interior journal of Nevada, excepting those on the Comstock.

W. & T. R. R. TIME TABLE.

These trains do not stop in Carson but a few minutes, being through trains.

A Disease that Wrecks the System

Every function is deranged, every nerve unstrung, every muscle and fiber weakened by fever and ague. It is in fact a disease which unchecked, eventually wrecks the system. In all its types, in every phase it is dangerous, destructive. Stupor, delirium, convulsions, often attend it and cause swift dissolution. But when combated with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters its foothold in the system is dislodged, and every vestige of it eradicated. That benign, specific and preventive of the dreaded scourge is recognized not only within our own boundaries but in tropic lands far beyond them where its merits are fearfully proven to be a sure antidote for the malarial fevers of the stomach, liver and bowels, of which a vitiated torrid atmosphere and brackish miasmatic water are extremely provocative. All emigrants and travelers should be supplied with it.

SENATOR JONES arrived in Washington Friday from his business trip to Leadville, Colorado. He is greatly impressed with the mineral resources of that region, which he says have not been exaggerated.

The Internal Revenue officers seized the tobacco manufactory of Culp & Co., in San Benito county, Cal., but subsequently released it upon finding that they had made a mistake. They have now $25,000 suit for damages on their hands.

WHITE PINE NEWS.—A correspondent writes us that at present times are extremely hard in all the White Pine towns. The District Court is in session at Hamilton. Several candidates for position under Gen. Battersman will be attended to. Clifford, the stage robber, has already been re-elected.

While a social dance was in progress in Nevada City obscene letters addressed to the attendants were dropped upon the floor, and made quite a commotion. Two young men were arrested as the offenders, but were discharged, the evidence not being strong enough to convict. Tar and feathers were invented for such crimes as this.

When a clerk with a salary of $1,000 a year spends $500 a month upon himself it is time his employers began to think there is something wrong. That is what the employers of Arthur Jennings, New York, thought, and they made an investigation which developed the fact that their trusted young man had made way with $20,000 of their money. He languishes in jail.

While the Texas Pacific lobby is actively at work trying to open the federal treasury and obtain money for building a southern transcontinental railroad, the Southern Pacific, of California, is steadily moving eastward, and before the people at the other end of the line are fairly awake, the Southern Pacific engines may be heard in the Mississippi valley. The road is now completed a distance of 875 miles from San Francisco.

The Treasury Department has been engaged for some time in the investigation of the alleged undervaluations in silk importations and it is understood that the chain of evidence is so complete that prompt and decisive action is to be taken. Special agents have been engaged in the investigation and it has extended to transactions both in this country and Europe. It is claimed that the evidence already obtained shows conclusively that the Government has been defrauded out of at least $3,000,000 a year by undervaluation of silk for several years.

THE S. P. R. R.

In the history of railroad building in the United States, the marvelous progress made in the construction of the Southern Pacific Railroad has never been equalled, all things considered. A late dispatch from the front records the situation now as follows:

The track is laid one-half mile east of Maricopa, 115½ miles east of the Colorado river. The track between Gila bend and Maricopa will be turned over to the operating department on Sunday, April 27, and the station and outfit at Gila bend moved forward at that date. Maricopa will be open for traffic and regular trains will be running to that point on Monday, April 29.

CRIME AND LABOR.

By an official report made public the other day of the financial concerns of one of the New York State prisons it appears that the crime of the State foots up very satisfactorily for the public purse. It not only does not cost the people a cent for the support of the stalwart rogues who are condemned for their crimes, but the labor of the rogues feeds and clothes them, pays the expenses of the prison and gives a profit. This showing causes an exchange to remark:

No more satisfactory account than that can be given of a State prison. Crime is commonly one of the costliest burdens that a community has to bear. Aside from the injury it does indirectly to industry and commerce it entails everywhere the expense of an enormous police and an elaborate judicial system, and finally the expense of the support of State prisons and the world of criminals in them. No community's paupers cost it more than its criminals, and the cost to the public in the American communities for the support of paupers and criminals together is a burden upon industry and capital equivalent to the support of nobles and aristocrats in the countries afflicted with that sort of cattle. But there are some people who do not like the notion that criminals in prison should support themselves. They regard their labor as an injurious competition with the labor of honest men outside. But the citizen who judges for himself may judge which he would prefer—that a burglar up for ten years shall pass that time in a cell, while he at work on the outside is taxed for that prisoner's support, or that the burglar shall be made to earn his own living and contribute what he may to lighten the common load of taxation.

The Nevada State Prison is a source of great tax to us—nearly $80,000 per year. We doubt if it can ever be made self-sustaining in its present place. If its location was Reno, where the water power of the Truckee could be used, thus enabling the prisoners to be kept constantly employed, in making boots and shoes, furniture, etc., or a woolen mill be run inside the walls, the State would be saved a greater part, if not all, of the expense now sustained.

CALIFORNIA'S FIGHT.

The anti-Constitution folks seem to be gaining ground in California. Two weeks ago the other side had the best of it apparently. Another week may chop things around once more. On the 7th of May, the vote will tell which side has done the most lying in the campaign. The advocacy of Zach Montgomery would be apt to prevent us from voting for it, undoubtedly, because it will impair the public school system. On the other hand, the fact that "money" is endeavoring to prevent its adoption, would be liable to cause us to vote for it.

FOOLISH IDEA.

There has been a resolution before the Senate permitting the Secretary and Sergeant-at-Arms to appoint their subordinates. Some foolish Republican offered an amendment that no Unionman should be removed except for cause, and no Confederate soldier should take the place of any dismissed Union soldier. Thurman, Bayard, and the other Democrats, very promptly voted the amendment down. The idea of such a proposition.

THE COMSTOCK.

Signs of Returning Life in the Market.—Sierra Nevada and the North End in General—Belcher and Crown Point—The South End—North Bonanza and Flowery—What the Leading Mining Companies Along the Comstock are Doing.—Etc.

[Enterprise, 20th.]

Cheering signs of life have here and there been seen in leading stocks during the past week, though the advances have not been very great nor yet permanent. It is good, however, to see something in the way of an upward movement occasionally, even though it may not be long sustained. Bubbles on the mining lot are better than a dead calm. Although rapid progress is not being made in the Sierra Nevada, all continues very favorable in the bottom of the incline. The material encountered is mostly quartz filled with seams and feeders of rich ore, which are doubtless offshoots from the main body over which the incline is passing.

In the Mexican Union Consolidated and Ophir all is progressing as favorably as could be desired. All the drifts, winzes and upraises are being pushed as rapidly as possible, and all are encountering material of a very promising appearance. No bad features are seen in any of the openings now being made in the north end mines. Even where hard blasting rock is encountered, it is vein porphyry of that nature spoken of as "kindly."

In the Ophir they are finding many seams of low-grade ore in their deepest workings. These all have a dip to the west. This would seem to indicate that the west ledge, passed about the 1800 level, and not much looked after since the finding of the east or Hardy vein, is again making and is at no great distance behind the incline. As a crosscut will be sent back to the west at the 2300 level, and no doubt at certain points above the whereabouts and character of the west ledge, so long left to take care of itself, will now soon become known.

In the great ore channel at the north end—a stream of vein porphyry nearly 2,000 feet in width—deposits of ore are likely to be found both east and west, indeed in any part, as it is all a fertile metalliferous belt. Arrangements are now almost completed whereby a clean sweep in the way of exploration will be made of a vast extent of virgin ground, and at a great depth. It is quite probable that what the Sierra Nevada folks now have in their west vein, a vein corresponding to the old west vein in the Ophir, and that to the eastward lies another great ore body, the southern or tail end of which is now exposed in the Ophir, where it is known as the Hardy vein. A drill should be run east at the 2200 and 2400 levels of the Sierra Nevada to test the nature of the ground in that direction.

At the Belcher and Crown Point the prospects are now very encouraging, and considerable quantities of ore almost rich enough to mill have already been found.

At the Imperial they are also encountering occasional seams of ore. They will soon be in a position to do some telling work at that point, through the new air connection with the Yellow Jacket on the 2400 level.

The Alta and Benton are now about ready to show up the levels on which they have so long been drifting, and when they do so will be able to take out and mill ore at once.

The North Bonanza and Flowery mines cannot be kept back much longer, as they are inclined to open up to some extent of their own accord—witness the late breaking in of the water through the east clay wall of the vein. This volunteer tapping of the vein leaves but little more tapping to do, and when the water is out some portion of the vein is likely to be seen. The pumps are working well and the water will soon be out.

CAUCUS MISRULE.

Republican Congressmen have on more than one occasion resorted to caucus legislation, in opposition to the best public sentiment of the party, and they cannot now complain when the Democrats are applying the system with merciless rigor and effectiveness. The country, however, has a right to complain. There is neither sense nor justice in the practice of reversing the opinion of the minority and wielding it in actual legislation against the majority. The vote in the recent Democratic caucus shows that not less than ten Senators of that party are opposed to the policy of attempting to force the repeal of the Federal election laws. If these Senators, or even half of them, were left free to regulate their votes in accordance with their true sentiments and their sworn duty as legislators, the scheme would prove a hopeless failure. In the House of Representatives, where a change of four votes would change the Democratic majority, there are at least forty Democrats opposed to the plan insisted upon by the caucus. Yet these ten Senators and forty Representatives, and the Republican delegations in both houses—which form a large majority of Congress—are to be overruled by an outside irresponsible convention.—[Ex.]

AN IMPORTANT MINING DECISION.—The New York Post of Friday evening comments on the decision in Denver on the 23d by Judge Hallett of the United States District Court, in the controversy between the Leadville Mining Company of that State and the owners of the Little Giant mine on the one hand and the Etna mine on the other, and says: "The importance of this decision can scarcely be overestimated. It is undoubtedly law, and this is not the first time it has been applied, even in Colorado. It secures the rights of the first discoverer of a ledge of mineral, and even will wipe out the surface line which the discoverer is entitled to establish, so that a mine hereafter is to be measured by the extent of the vein in whatever direction it may take, and not by the extent of the surface line, which has been presumed or occupied. The purchasers in New York of mining property cannot therefore be too careful, for not only is it essential for them to ascertain that the vendor has title to the surface but that the vein beneath is not one which the owners of other property have a right to follow."

SENATOR CONKLING'S SPEECH ON THE ARMY BILL.

[Press Dispatch.]

The overshadowing feature of interest at the capital Thursday was the long expected speech of Senator Conkling on the Army bill. His audience in point of numbers and distinction equaled, if it did not exceed, that which crowded the Senate Chamber on the occasion of Blaine's opening speech at the commencement of the pending debate, and it is safe to say that no speech of similar length in recent years has commanded or better rewarded such close attention throughout its entire delivery. Although rich in legal and constitutional arguments and characterized by resources of philosophical thought, it was, as Conkling himself avowed in his closing sentence, a political speech for the country rather than an argument designed to influence the vote on the bill before the Senate. Viewing it in this light, there is to-night no difference of opinion in Washington among men of both political parties as to its remarkable breadth and ability. Several of its points of arguments against the proposal repeal of the law authorizing the use of troops to keep the peace at the Federal elections were very fresh and striking. For instance, he argued that this authority is not in fact derived from that law, but from the law of 1875 and from that of 1879 and from the Constitution itself—the Act of 1865 having been passed not to confer power but to define and restrain it. So also in support of his proposition that this authority is still a necessity in time of peace. He dilated with glowing eloquence and most impressive oratorical effect upon the alleged election outrages in New York City, and boldly charged that the Democratic purpose in their proposed emancipation of the existing statute is to make such frauds and outrages easy of accomplishment in the future. His argument that the threatened refusal to make appropriations would be revolutionary, because the Constitution positively requires Congress to appropriate for public service the money received from the people and allows discretion only as to the amounts, was still more novel, but was enforced by reasoning of a high grade of logical power. Among the many other noticeable features of this remarkable speech may be noticed the incidental but very earnest expressions by which Conkling indicated his expectation and desire that Grant should receive the next Republican nomination for the presidency. Conkling at the conclusion of his speech was congratulated by so many of the Republican auditors on the floor that for several minutes it was impossible for the business of the Senate to proceed. About half of the members of the House of Representatives occupied seats on the floor of the Senate during the delivery of Conkling's speech, and among his attentive auditors were also noticeable Secretaries Evarts, Sherman and Thompson and General Sherman. His speech consumed exactly three hours, and from first to last was purely extempore, except that he occasionally referred to a few brief notes or headings.

BEECHER'S POSITION.

[New York Letter to Cincinnati Commercial.]

What has been the effect of the great scandal upon Henry Ward Beecher's life and work? There is no difference to be detected in and around Plymouth Church, save that he exhibits less of that exuberance of spirit which welled out of every line of his countenance and word of his mouth, and which was responded to and assisted by his arms, his body and his legs. His congregations are greater than ever. His flock is seemingly devoted to him and fascinated by his words. His pews sold lately for about the same as the average of fifteen years back, save, of course, the one year when $100,000 was raised for him. His mission schools are prospering and his Sunday school is overflowing. The people of Brooklyn talk no more about the scandal. Tilton has gone to New York, Moulton has taken up his abode in another city. Mrs. Tilton is in seclusion at Williamsburg. Beecher keeps on with his church work the same as ever.

But outside of Plymouth Church and Brooklyn? Ah! there the effect of the scandal crops out. Mr. Beecher is no longer the public man that he was. Time was when he made the chief speech at the annual New England dinner—and what a speech it was! budding with wit, sparkling with humor, noble for its eloquence, admired for its sentiment—a perfect speech. Since the scandal broke out Mr. Beecher has not been invited to the New England dinner. He speaks no more at banquet boards, at college commencements, at church dedications and statesmen's funerals. He does not seek these things, his friends say. They are not offered to him, reply his enemies. No longer does he discuss from Plymouth pulpit the vital political questions of the day. Some remarks on the Chinese problem in lecture have been quoted recently. But it is now more than a year since any word of his has attracted public attention, and then he was misreported in an incidental reference to the labor question; it was the first time for more than a year before that time. It looks to those who disinterestedly watch him as though Mr. Beecher is endeavoring to attract as little public attention as possible, and that he is endeavoring to give Plymouth Church the very best work of which he is capable, and it is quite likely that the public and Plymouth Church are satisfied that he should do so.

D. D. BOWEN has been elected Chief of Reno Lodge of Caucasians, vice Bobt. Frazer.

BUDEN is building a gallery on Virginia street, below Odd Fellows Building.

JOHN F. MYERS goes below to-night to purchase his stock of drugs and medicines.

THE Truckee Republican hoists Grant and Sargent as its Presidential ticket.

STOCKS were quite strong yesterday.
Union touched 74.

REAL ESTATE business is quite active.

THE weather is very pleasant.

Building Resume.

During the past week building has been as vigorously prosecuted as at any time since the fire, and carpenters, masons, plasterers, painters and glaziers, have had plenty of work. Reno has reached that stage where, in most cases, the finishing touches are being done.
As a result many have been enabled to resume business. In another month everybody will be in full blast again, and but few outward traces of the fire will remain to remind us of the disaster of March 2d. As a rule the new work is of a more substantial character than the old.

The Strawberry Crop.

Judge Poor, who has had experience in the business, informs us that the prospects are fine for a large crop of strawberries, and as Reno strawberries are the finest on the coast, we find pleasure in saying something about them. The late frosts injured the blossoms, but there was not one blossom in a thousand out, so there will be no danger of a scarcity of berries, unless we have a severe frost next month, near the full of the moon. The Judge, if there is danger, proposes to keep half a dozen fires burning among his vines.
He has an acre and a half under cultivation, and believes he will be able to produce a magnificent lot of berries.

Mail Routes North.

From a letter from Congressman Daggett we learn that the Department refuses to make double service at the Junction House, nor does it take kindly to the proposal to connect Fort Bidwell with Willow Ranch. Daggett says he will secure the best connections possible for Reno northward and either by Susanville or some other way try to get a through daily communication with the Dalles, within ten days the Department will advertise all new routes.

A Big Card.

The Pioneers are going to try and have Grant at their picnic. Senator Gibson suggested the idea. It's a good one. Grant will be along this way, and if he could be induced to be present at the picnic, there would be such a rush, that the receipts would surely pay the "Old Boys" out of soak. If Grant will consent to stand, we hope the exhibition will be made.

Gave Bonds.

Mark Brown was up before Judge
Bowker yesterday accused of swindling Mrs. Howard out of some cattle. He plead not guilty and was released on bonds until the 30th.

"Billy Hazel" Dead.

The well-known running horse "Billy Hazel" backed into a well at Alturas the other day and was killed. He was the property of Sol Geller, who is now less $400 in horseflesh.

Amputated.

Thos. Hitchcock's leg was amputated yesterday afternoon by Drs. Bergman and Hogan. He is resting well, and there is a slight hope of his recovery.

Soda Water.

This is the season of the year when soda water is a favorite beverage. Jose, the Reno soda man, manufactures a superior quality of that article.

Baths.

Coleman & Pechner's bathing rooms are in good order, and hot, cold and shower baths can now be enjoyed the same as of yore.

Yes, You Can.

There is nothing in the new fish law to prohibit the catching of trout for one's own use.

Adam Clark, whose death by lockjaw caused by the severing of the sciatic nerve by a gun shot we have described in these columns, was buried in Virginia yesterday afternoon at 3:30. He was barely 20 years old.

At the next meeting of the Commissioners several ordinances for the government of our newly incorporated town will be passed. Among them should be one compelling houses of ill-fame to return from the full gaze of the principal streets, as they now are.

Dye and Anderson, the murderers of Tullis, are to be executed on the 29th of May. Ah Choney is sentenced to be hung the day following. A sweet trio, those.

Mn. HILL, the artist, was here yesterday. In about three weeks he will open a studio in Reno. People who want fine painting can then have it done.

The findings in the Marshall-Golden Fleece case will be very apt to put a stop to pending negotiations for the sale of the mine to New York parties.

THE Truckee Republican is doing a good work in the way of clearing the obstructions from the river so that the fish can get up to the spawning grounds.

The Raymond and Ely Mining Company has levied an assessment of $1 per share, delinquent May 27th, and the Successor one of fifty cents per share, delinquent May 28th.

Brevities.

The snow is receding from the foothills.

N. J. Salisbury came in from Bodie last night.

This office is fully prepared to do all kinds of job work.

The first of May is almost here, but the picnic talk is weak.

There is still a general custom prevalent to date everything A. F.

Burchard & McClelland are about to take unto themselves a new sign.

The auction sale of flowers attracted considerable attention yesterday.

Isn't it about time for another opium raid? The harvest is ripe for the reapers.

The Odd Fellows flag flew at the mast head yesterday in honor of the 60th anniversary.

Wild ducks are said to swarm in Washoe Valley now that the game law is in force.

The Assessor is at work. Prepare yourself to return a fair valuation when called upon.

There is a letter in the Virginia City Postoffice for Michael Shaby, Reno, without a stamp.

Charley Palmer closed out his stock at auction last night, and leaves to-day for his home in Virginia.

Doc Benton will start his line of stages from Carson to Lake Tahoe on the first of next month.

The boys are ready for that "Spring rise" in stocks to begin. They are tired of paying assessments.

The last sad rites were paid to the late John McGinley yesterday. Another 49-er has ceased his wanderings.

Ducks have made their appearance on Truckee Meadows; doves are also beginning to put in an appearance.

The Pavilion is being fitted up for Dr. McKenzie's lectures on temperance, which commence to-morrow evening.

Taking a drink now in Virginia City is called "flooding the lower levels."
They might add "with surface water."

The base ball boys play this afternoon, weather permitting, back of the Seminary. No doubt the playists will be out in force.

That expression "What never?"
"Well hardly ever" is from "H. M. S.
Pinafore," a cantata which is going the rounds of the Eastern cities.

Sarah Maud Pollard, the Tuscarora man-woman, is to take the lecture field. Thank fortune we have no hall for her, she or it to hold forth in.

The express and railroad companies carried all the relief supplies for the Eureka sufferers free of charge, as they did to the Reno afflicted. All praises to them.

Ab Choney was visited by two female women of the Chinese persuasion yesterday. They held sweet converse through the cruel bars for a couple of hours.

In the case of A. H. Manning, Administrators of the estate of J. J. and Isabella Woodworth, deceased, vs. L. F.
Dean and D. C. Martin, the jury assessed the defendants $900.

The Eureka fire is the third largest that has occurred in Nevada, that at Virginia City being the heaviest disaster and the fire at Reno on the 2nd of last March being the next greatest.

WE can be more startling than to see a delicate and fascinating young lady with a long train suddenly turned around, without giving her any warning whatever, gently stop, reach back with right foot, and kick desperately? She is going to cro to the street, and is merely switching of her train in the new direction.

CHARGE OF THE LIGHT BRIGADE.

A survivor of the celebrated ride into the jaws of death, gives, in the Boston Commercial Bulletin, the following graphic picture of the charge:

Lord Cardigan's eye glanced us over; then spurring his horse forward a few paces, he said:

"My men, we have received orders to silence that battery."

"My God!" my brother ejaculated.
Then, grasping my hand, he said:
"Fred, my dear fellow, good-bye; we don't know what may happen. God bless you; keep close to me—"

What more might have been said was lost in Lord Cardigan's ringing shout of:
"Charge!"

We went in at a trot; the trot changed to a canter, and the canter to a gallop.
Through the lines I could see Lord Cardigan several horse-lengths ahead, riding as steadily as if he was on a parade. Now, to tell the plain truth, when we had ridden a short distance, say 100 paces, I felt terribly afraid. The truth flashed upon me in a moment that we were riding into a position that would expose us to a fire on both flanks, as well as from the fire of the battery in front of us, which we had been instructed to silence. I said to myself, "This is a ride to death!" but I said it loud enough for my brother to hear, and he answered and said:

"There goes the first!"

The first was Lord Lucan's aide de-camp, Capt. Nolan, who, after making a slight detour, was crossing our left to join us in the charge. A cannon ball had just cut him in two as my brother spoke.

My heart leaped into my mouth and I almost shrieked with fear, but I restrained myself, and setting my teeth hard I rode on. A moment later the rifle bullets from the sharpshooters on the hillsides began to whistle about our ears. Saddles are emptied at every step.
Then came the whistling shot and shrieking shell, and tore through our squadrons, mangle men and horses, plowing bloody furrows through and through our ranks. Then my fear left me. My whole soul became filled with the thirst of revenge, and I believe that the same spirit animated every man in the ranks. Their eyes flashed and they ground their teeth and pressed closer together. The very horses caught the mad spirit and plunged forward, as if impatient to lead us to our revenge and thirst. At this time there was not much to be seen. A heavy, dense smoke hung over the valley but the flaming mouths of the guns revealed themselves to our eyes at every moment as they belched forth their murderous contents of shot and shell.

Now a shot tore through our flanks, then a shell plowed an oblique and bloody furrow from our right front to our left rear; anon a recoiling shot rose over our front ranks, fell into our center and hewed its way to the rear, making sad havoc in its passage. Oh!
that was a ride! Horses ran riderless, and men bare-headed, and spashed with the blood of their comrades, pressed closer and closer and ground their teeth harder, and mentally swore a deadlier revenge as their numbers grew smaller.

Alone and in front rode Cardigan, still keeping the same distance ahead. His charger was headed for the center of the battery. Silently we followed him. Up to this time neither my brother nor myself had received the slightest scratch, although we were now riding side by side with comrades who at the start were separated from us by several files.
We reached the battery at last. Up to this time we had ridden in silence, but what a yell burst from us as we plunged in among the Russian gunners. Well it would have been for them if they had killed us all before we reached them.
They had done too much and too little.
They had set us on fire with passion.
Only blood could quench our thirst for revenge. We passed through the battery like a whirlwind, snatching the gunners in the passage. I don't believe one of them lived to tell the tale of that ride.
Out of the battery and into the brigade —an army it was—of cavalry. Our charge was resistless.

The Russians fell before our sabres as corn before a reaper. They seemed to have no power of resistance. And there was no lack of material to work upon.
They closed in on us and surrounded us on every side, but we hewed our way through them as men would hew their way through a virgin forest, and only stopped when we reached the banks of the Tenomaya river.

LOUIS SCHNEIDER, the late emanuensis of the German Emperor, was a man of odd notions. The pillow on which his head rested in his coffin was the work of his own hands, and he has been engaged in making it for thirty years. It was stuffed with his own hair, which he had preserved from the clippings of his lifetime. In color, it varied from the light brown of youth to the snowy white of age. In his will, Schneider described in detail the way in which he wished to be buried, and wrote out the epitaph that he desired to have placed upon his tombstone.
